

Consumer Health Data Privacy Policy

Last modified: December 19, 2025

This Consumer Health Data Privacy Policy describes Akebia Therapeutics, Inc.’s (“Akebia,” “we,” “us,” or “our”) privacy practices for “consumer health personal data” as defined under applicable U.S. state laws.

Consumer health data is any data that is linked or reasonably linkable to a specific individual and that identifies that individual’s past, present, or future physical or mental health status that Akebia collects or controls the collection of (“consumer health data”).

This Policy applies to the sites, products, applications, platforms, or other services linking to this Policy. This Policy does not apply to any sites, products, applications, platforms, or other services not directly linking to this Policy. To view our privacy policy describing how we treat other types of personal information, visit <https://akebia.com/privacy-policy/>.

Please read this Policy carefully to understand our policies and practices regarding your consumer health data and how we will treat it. If you do not agree with our policies and practices, you should not use the sites, products, applications, platforms, or other services linking to this Policy.

Consumer Health Data We May Collect About You

We may collect and use the following types of consumer health data from and about you:

- Your health conditions, treatment, diseases, or diagnoses
- Lab or testing results
- Information about your symptoms, vital signs, and bodily function
- Use of prescribed treatments or medications
- Health insurance information
- Other information that may be used to infer or derive data related to the above or other health information

Our Uses of Your Consumer Health Data

Primarily, we use these categories of consumer health data to comply with our regulatory obligations to health authorities, including reporting adverse events and product quality complaints. However, we may also use your consumer health data for our essential business operations that support the provision and administration of our products and services, including internal research, product development, and patient support service offerings. We may also use your consumer health data for any other purpose for which we have obtained your consent.

Consumer Health Data Sources

We collect consumer health data from the following sources:

- Directly or indirectly from you or your caregivers or agents;
- From third parties, including healthcare professionals;
- Your device when you visit or interact with our sites, applications, or services, including through cookies, web beacons, and similar technologies that automatically send us information when you browse, use, visit, or otherwise interact with our sites, applications, or services;
- Our business and marketing partners, who provide us with information about consumers who are viewing our content across other websites or applications, purchasing our products, or interacting with our promotions, benefits, or programs; and
- Other third-party sources, such as data brokers who provide us with information about consumers that may be interested in our products or services.

Consumer Health Data Disclosures

We do not sell your consumer health data.

We may disclose any of the consumer health data categories listed above to processors, service providers, and contractors that help us provide products and services to you. We instruct these processors, service providers, and contractors to only use consumer health data as permitted by our contracts with them and consistent with applicable law.

We may also disclose consumer health data as permitted by applicable law, including:

- With your consent.
- To regulators, such as the FDA;
- To prevent, detect, protect from, or respond to security incidents, identity theft, fraud, harassment, or malicious or deceptive activities.
- To a third party acquiring our assets if we sell our business or otherwise are part of a merger, acquisition, bankruptcy, or other transaction involving a third party taking control of our assets or business.
- To investigate, report, or take legal action to protect our rights, property, and safety and the rights, property, and safety of others.
- To protect your or others' vital interests, including health and safety.

Your Privacy Rights

You have specific rights with respect to your consumer health data. You have the right to:

- Request confirmation that we collect and/or share your consumer health data.
- Request access to your consumer health data that we have collected or control.
- Withdraw your consent for our collection and sharing of your consumer health data.
- Request that we delete your consumer health data.

Contact Information

To exercise any of your rights, or to make an inquiry or comment about this Policy or our privacy practices, contact us at privacy@akebia.com or via our toll-free number: 844-235-2205.